Bill Moore
Art - Who Needs It?

As a working professional artist for over 16 years, a high school art teacher for 15, and a parochial minister for 10, Bill Moore has spent his entire life pursuing his passion. He will be sharing stories about the people and events that have shaped the course of his career.

The following is an excerpt from the Four Seasons Hotel Westlake Village, California Press Kit, May 13, 2011:

Father Bill, as he is called by the young artists who frequently drop by his studio to discuss anything from the Bible to Bruce Springsteen, is a priest assigned by his religious order, the Congregation of the Sacred Hearts to work full time as Minister of the Arts.

A mentor to many other local artists in the community, Father Bill’s artwork reflects his belief that the role of the artist is to explore the seemingly hidden truths and meanings that connect the physical and spiritual worlds.

“We live in hurried times and are inundated with countless images,” says the Glendale, California native. “Through my art, I am asking myself and those that would explore it to slow down, look, touch and consider the essential colors, shapes and textures that can feed our souls.”

April 4, 2012

Dear Dr. Teal and Mr. Cerro,

It was a pleasure to meet both of you this morning. I enjoyed our discussions and am most grateful for the generous donation to Mt. San Antonio College's Osher Campaign. Your gift makes it possible for one of our needy and deserving students to receive a scholarship that will help them progress to their educational goal. Your endowed amount of $13,334 plus the match from Bernard Osher of $6,667 will be named for the Covina Rotary Club and will allow the College to provide a $1,000 ($500 each semester) scholarship a year in perpetuity.

On behalf of the Mt. San Antonio Foundation and Mt. San Antonio College, please extend my heartfelt appreciation to the Covina Rotary Club members for their gift of education, a gift of hope.

Lisa Sugimoto, Interim Executive Director
Mt. San Antonio College Foundation
