H3Missions, Inc. & Help 4 Hurting Humanity

H3Missions, Inc. started two days after the 2010 earthquake which devastated Port au Prince. It started with me calling friends and family in the medical profession asking them to fly to Haiti with me. Our first trip was nine health professionals, business people and engineers who went to work in an orphanage and a medical clinic in an area affected by the earthquake. Since then, we have made nine more trips, with our last trip, this past June, comprising over 80 medical, dental, construction and business professionals, along with students and others from Washington state, Pennsylvania, New Mexico, Florida, Texas and Central and Southern California.

We conducted free medical and dental clinics in orphanages and tent cities, constructed classrooms and bathroom facilities at a school which is in an impoverished area affected by the earthquake, while others on our team performed surgeries in local hospitals. The many youth had an opportunity to share in all of the activities while also sharing experiences such as playing soccer, doing artwork and going swimming with the local kids.

We have been supporting an orphanage with 37 kids ranging in age from four months to 16 years old, and we also are now supporting that medical clinic.
