This Week:

BYOB: Bring Your Own Bottle (of water)

Everything you ever wanted to know (but were afraid to ask) about...our Los Angeles County Sanitation District. Andrew Hall, Civil Engineer in the Wastewater Management Department will give an overview of the Sanitation District and discuss his major projects—utilizing recycled water as a reliable water supply and improving groundwater conditions at a site impacted by wastewater plant effluent. So, here is a question for all of you...will you drink the ice water at lunch on Thursday or will you bring your own bottle? Good thing, our presentation is after lunch.

Last Week

We all had the privilege of meeting Everett Ramos, the owner of RED (Restaurant, Entertainment & Dancing) and learning about his vision for this newest restaurant in downtown Covina. For those of you who missed it, we learned that the menu is California cuisine, the acoustics will be conducive for intimate dining (i.e. not too loud for conversations) and patrons over 40 years of age will feel right at home. Lina Ledford is looking forward to being part of the young and beautiful clientele at the front of the VIP line!

Gordon Browning and his beautiful Liberty Bell tapestry.

Next Week: Parents' Place Family Resource & Empowerment Center

Next Thursday, we will host Karen Nutt, Executive Director & Co-Founder of Parents' Place Family Resource & Empowerment Center. This resource center gives parents a safe place to receive valuable information on their child's development and particular disability, and to find the community resources they need.
