October 17, 2013 Issue #14 Editor: S.J. Harrison

This Week: Hope Resource Group

Is being homelessness in 2013 any more romantic than it was in the Great Depression?

Mark Carter provides Covina Rotary with a view of the transitional housing services provided in and around Pomona by Hope Resource Group. Between 2000 and 2013, they have grown from a facility with one home to 21 residences and they have served more than 1600 men, women and children. Hope Resources is committed to providing long-term solutions for the at-risk population through a comprehensive range of programs. Their overall goal is to help their participants become self-sufficient. Mark will undoubtedly share some of their clients' success stories and some of the agency's challenges.

This is Rose Float Month for Rotary International

DG Miles Petroff asks everyone to come together and make this year's Rotary float a huge success! He needs a little money, a little man power, and a whole lot of Rotarian rose colored outlook to accomplish his goal. Looking for a place to drop your small change and big bills, it will find a good home in the fish bowl at our meetings throughout October.

Next Week: Club Assembly

President Tricia is dying for everyone to attend our Club Assembly next week. She proclaims that it will "give new members the bones of our club and enlighten others."

President Tricia and members of her infamous board promise to provide the Club with an inside view of what makes Covina Rotary come alive.

For the faint of heart, smelling salts will be administered by our house dentists. With service above self in mind, Rob Curry has graciously promised a fast pass to anyone who is rushed to the ICMC Emergency Room during the Club Assembly.

Help wanted:

If you are looking for an exciting side-career that allows you to let out your inner self, Covina Rotary has a job for you. Become a Rotary Wheel Editor. You can work at home – at all hours of the day or night. Experience is unnecessary and spell checker allows you to be semi-illiterate. Since you work for free, there is no stress added by having your income tax obligation increase. It is perfect.
