

December 11, 2013 Issue #20 Editor: Dan Banh

This Week:

Last Sunday Dec. 7th was a National Pearl Harbor Remembrance Day which commemorates the attack on Pearl Harbor and the lost lives of our service men and women. This date back in 1941 also marked the beginning of the darkest period for most Japanese Americans. Many of them were confined into internment camps against their will. Here to tell his experience is Mr. Bacon Sakatani who was just 12 yrs old (born and raised in El Monte) when he was taken away, along with his family, to an internment camp in Wyoming.

Next Week:

Christmas Luceon 2014!

Come and enjoy the festivity with your fellow Rotarians and guests while being entertained by Charter Oak High School Choir ensemble and meet Santa Claus. Isn't sound delightful and not frightful? Make sure to RSVP to Andy ASAP. The festivity starts at 11:30 am. President Jon, can you guess what year was this photo taken?

Last Week:

It was all about Covina Cares, another pride-and-joy project of our club. Tony certainly has everything under control with the help of Yesenia and members of the club such as Sue and Lina. This is a ginormous undertaking and we all should get involved. Despite his Mom lied to him about Xmas presents when he was a kid, Tony still loves his Mom very much.

Covina Cares Project is next Saturday, 12/20, 8 am to 2 pm. We are expecting over 250 needy families, a big jump from ~ 200 last year, to come and pick up food and toys for the holidays. But prior to that, we need volunteers to help sort out toys and food. It will be at Covina Ed Center located at 160 N. Barranca Ave. (near Badillo behind Covina School District) on Dec. 15 – 19 from 3 – 8 pm. So let roll up our sleeves and perform one last good deed for the year.

* A big shout out to Tricia for hosting Covina Christmas Parade viewing party at her office last Sat. night! In addition, Tricia is also selling tickets to Covina Charities Wine Walk for this Sat. night. All proceeds will go to our club. Wow Tricia, you go girl!

Today is Andy's B-day!

Fight On for ol' Andy.....

Now you can pay a fine for the cake.

Go SC! Beat the Cornhuskers...

Merry Christmas and Happy New Year!
