This Week:

Warren Green founded Ultra Life in 1985, a primary and preventive medical diagnostic testing company. He received his Bachelor of Arts in Business from University of Washington where he also played varsity football. His presentation focuses on the needs for preventive diagnostic analysis and all other high technology tests that are currently available. He will show us how to gain information in order to protect ourselves from the three leading killers in America (heart disease, stroke, and cancer). In most cases, these medical conditions can be greatly minimized or prevented if detected early enough using new technologies. In addition, there is a special complimentary program that his organization provides to young underprivileged athletes between the age of 13 to 18 with abnormal EKG findings. This screening detects signs of cardiomyopathy which is the main cause of sudden death syndrome. This program is completely being funded by Mr. Green himself out of love and passion of helping others.

Last Week:

Thomas Allison founded Social Justice Advocacy Project for one reason - to empower disenfranchised individuals to come up with practical solutions to life's social problems. The roots of empowerment come from improvement in family, education, criminal justice, health and finances. The organization achieves these through hosting programs, workshops, seminars, fitness contests, etc. and whatever the community needs to improve the quality of life for those fell upon hard time. Thomas exemplifies what a true Rotarian is, always looking for ways to help those less fortunate.

Congratulations to Jerry Mora for being a fastest member to become a blue badger. He just got his red badge only ~ 3 wks ago and already completed all the requirements. This is definitely a record. Take note red badgers!

Patricia is hard at work already and it's not even her turn yet. Here she is with President Andy and President Bill of Mt. Sac at Mt. Sac Annual Scholarship Awards Ceremony. Our club is a long-time supporter of Mt. Sac and the success of student scholars. Our donation of $13,000 to the Osher Foundation Scholarship program enables us to give $1000 to a Mt. Sac student per year in perpetuity. We should all be very proud!
